

Notes:

Alexis Reid will do some consulting with teachers about classroom set-up. She will be offering support around how the environment affect executive functioning

Girls on the Run had their 5k run on the weekend and we like to continue it in the Fall. We will need some volunteers for next year. Using our SIP budget to pay teachers for their time.

Students will have options to do one session of tutoring and one session of clubs.
What kind of training needs to happen in order to start Girls on the Run in September?

Questions: Will the curriculum feel stale the second time around? Or will it feel novel?

SIP End of Plan Data Review

Literacy goal was to increase vocabulary

In K-2 78% of our students scored at benchmark

CKLA has a lot of vocabulary reach instruction ready for teachers to teach

The vocabulary is only measured by mClass

Why was there a vocab focus? When we looked at our data Vocab was an area of weakness.

How do we use the data to help with reading and other academics within the grade levels?

Math Goals was to support students with problem solving but really thinking about word problems.

We have made some significant growth.

Using tutoring and clubs to embed some opportunities for learning

Bringing games in that don't feel like work

It would be helpful in the future to see the numbers (Data) without the text

The process in setting the goals should be reconsider to more realistic goals in order to celebrate our accomplishments

Chronic Absenteeism Goal

We wanted to reduce it and it has increased. We have done a good job with our older students in getting them to school and wanting to be in school. Still working on lower grades.

At Open House yesterday Sam reminded parents about how important it is for even our younger students to come to school (routines, learning)

The amount of teaching that is happening and what students are missing is a lot

Is really hard for teachers to catch students up

Educating parents about missing days of school

Interested in the subset of kids who are at below level and absenteeism.

Correlation and grade levels
